FLOATING IN SPACE: A NOVEL SET IN A VANISHED WORLD;MANCHESTER - 1977 NO MOBILES, NO LAPTOPS, NO INTERNET! (PAPERBACK)

Createspace, United States, 2014. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . An engaging read which I thoroughly enjoyed is how one reviewer described Floating In Space. Another said he loved every page. A young man tires of his mundane office job in Manchester, quits everything to go and live in Spain, then returns home disillusioned. His next journey around the streets of Manchester in 1977 is not the one he imagined he would be taking! Follow Stuart Hill in the pubs and bars of Manchester. His life and loves unfold before us as they travel to their devastating climax and along the way take a fascinating peek into urban Manchester in the late 1970 s. No mobile phones, no laptops, and no Internet, and a pint of bitter cost 25p! Floating In Space is a kitchen sink drama in the same mould as Saturday Night and Sunday Morning and A kind of Loving and in this novel, Steve Higgins delivers a compelling first person narrative. Floating In space is set in the late seventies. There were no mobile phones, no internet, and no computers, well, there were computers but they were the size of a small room and were programmed by small cards with cut out holes. The main character, Stuart Hill, is in his early twenties and is bored by his life as an office worker. To escape this every day hum drum life he decides to go and live in Spain with his friend Mike Larini and enjoy the sun, sand, and hopefully, the young ladies. This does not quite work out so Stuart returns home and is cajoled by his mother into taking a job as a bus conductor. Stuart is initiated into the arts...
